MEMORANDUM OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Kenyan Constitution 2010 article 185 part 3 gives both national and county government their specific roles, and Article 183(2) gives county executive committee members the mandate to prepare proposed legislation for consideration by the county assembly. The Fourth schedule part 7 of the constitution gives trade development and regulation including markets to the county government.

This bill provides a legal framework of regulating trade, markets and all business activities in the county. The bill also spells out penalties for various offences relating to disorderly behaviour in public markets.

The bill also offers for the establishment of office of the director and deputy director of trade and other offices responsible for the day to day management trade and markets in the county.

The various ways and structures of contacting business in the markets have also been stated and in the bill and how these can be regulated through licensing.

The enactment of this bill into law will mark an important milestone in regulating trade in the county which will eventually bring order and sobriety in the sector. The act will also enable the establishment of the key structures and offices responsible for day to day administration of trade in the county.
